COAL SHORTAGE THREATENS TO CLOSE FACTORIES

The coal shortage, Mr. Storero stated, would come in January or February, at which time additional difficulty in moving coal is expected because of weather conditions.

New England's normal consumption of coal is more than 2,000,000 tons a month, but less than twenty-five per cent of this amount has been received from the last twenty-two days, according to Mr. Storero.

As a result of present conditions, it has been decided that factories, which have orders booked ahead, will continue to run at capacity. Mr. Storero, as State Administrator, has suggested to some coal and coke shippers that he would be reluctant to take the action with mill owners which would be to lay off in part supplies sufficient to carry them for some time. He said that a possible emergency might be made to favor of public utilities which must be kept running.

MOORE COAL FOR RAILROADS.

Today it was stated that there are 12,000 tons of coal on the way to New England, which were loaded at Southern ports yesterday and today. This coal will be used for the railroads, which consume 17,000 tons a day, or, if used for the mills, 10,000 tons.

A Tickle in The Beginning.

It is reported that the coal shortage in the West, which is the cause of the coal shortage in the East, is being met by the West.

about one-fourth of the entire New England consumption.

A conference of New England fuel administrators was held today. Mr. Storero's office is located at the State House. At the conference, regulations were coordinated in that no one industry in any particular State may have an advantage over another. It was also decided that the temperature of buildings may be kept at 55 degrees during the night and morning that the pipes may not freeze.

Robert H. Dixon, State Administrator for Rhode Island, also participated in the conference. He has six office assistants to assist him. The telephone number is Main 1000.

WARNING VIOLATIONS.

Mr. Storero said that he warned five violators of the regulations today in regard to the improper use of lights. The police reported a large number of violations, the majority due to misunderstandings. Mr. Storero has a number of volunteer deputies who make inspections of stores and shops to see that the regulations are being complied with. Inspectors of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company are co-operating with those volunteers.

The Boston administrator attended a meeting of the Retail Trade Board at the Chamber of Commerce in Boston today, and explained the regulations.

situation together with the manner of their enforcement.

An eight-hour day instead of a six-hour day for the retail stores after Christmas was the request made to the Federal Fuel Committee at Washington today by a delegation from the Boston Retail Board.

The merchants declared that the schedule now in force under the fuel conservation law is a hardship on them during the Christmas shopping season. They have expressed a willingness to close their stores tomorrow, Monday, January 13, if a longer business day at this time.

Following the conference in Washington, officers of the retail board expected to meet for long distance telephone of action taken.

If the eight-hour day is granted by the Federal committee, retail stores will open at 9 a. m. and close at 5 p. m.

GOING TO WORK EARLIER.

According to Boston Executive officials, office workers are starting to work earlier on account of the rule which requires them to shut off light and heat at 4 p. m. The "rush hour" on the Elevated was shifted from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. and 11 a. m. to 12 a. m. Extra service was supplied between 11 a. m. and 12 a. m. to accommodate department store employees and shoppers.

The New England sub-committee on coal announced that several bargains with coal were on their way to the coast. The fuel was destined for railroads and other public utilities, not for industrial concerns.

GENERAL ALARM FOR SALEM K. C. BLOCK FIRE.

At 10:12 a. m., a general alarm fire, which started from an unknown cause, in the library of the Knights of Columbus Building early today caused damage estimated at $20,000.

Starting on the second floor, the blaze worked through to the roof of the three-story brick structure, making a clean sweep of the third floor and arousing the fear of a conflagration.

The fire was discovered by a woman who lives across the street from the building, which is located on Washington square, East and Griggs streets. She telephoned to the police, who notified the fire department, and a chemical truck was dispatched to the scene.

By the time the firemen arrived the blaze had assumed serious proportions, and a bell alarm was pulled, followed a short time later by a general alarm.

The charter and records of the organization, together with the honor roll of members in service, were saved by K. O. C. men who arrived shortly after the fire was discovered.

HOLD 3 BROTHERS AS FREIGHT CAR THIEVES.

Providence, Dec. 12.—For conspiring to rob freight cars of the New Haven road of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise, Joseph, Fred and Pasquale Morici, brothers, were arraigned before Judge Brown in Federal Court here today. Each pleaded not guilty. Fred and Joseph were each held in $10,000 and Pasquale $2,000.

Appoints Newspaperman.

Worcester, Dec. 12.—James H. Power, former American correspondent for Worcester and newspaperman of thirty years' experience, has been made Mayor-elect's private secretary.

HINES WILL BE DIRECTOR OF FUEL.

By International News Service, Washington, Dec. 12.—Mr. Harry A. Garfield, fuel administrator, has resigned. This was announced at the White House today.

President Wilson now has the resignation, and it will be accepted immediately.

Director-General Hines of the railroads will perform the duties of the fuel administration.

Dr. Garfield said that he had been feeling that he could not continue in the position. He has done a fine job and he is a fine man.

No reason for the resignation was announced by the White House, but it is understood that Dr. Garfield was not satisfied with the coal situation in the West, which has not been sufficient part in the recent negotiations with the miners and that it was his duty to resign.

Dr. Garfield at the Cabinet meeting on last Friday is understood to have taken a decided stand on the coal situation. There was a disagreement and it was decided that the President must act to settle the strike.

Dr. Garfield was consulted with regard to the statement that the President planned to make on Saturday night. When it was decided by Secretary Tamm not to issue this statement after a conference with John L. Lewis and William Green, Dr. Garfield was not advised. In the meantime, Dr. Garfield had made a statement which was to be supported by the President's statement.

The withholding of the President's statement made Dr. Garfield's statement appear incorrect. It is understood, however, that Dr. Garfield is also understood not to be in entire accord with the President's plan for a committee to investigate the wages of the miners.

Dr. Garfield is also understood to be of the large fields of the country, where he is debating whether they will accept the proposition for the settlement of the strike which was reached by Attorney-General Palmer with Acting President Lewis and Secretary

Green and the executive committee of the miners union.

The operations have not been notified of the making of the agreement by syndicate newspaper reports. They have been asked whether the settlement is acceptable to them, nor have they told any of the terms of the strike. It is understood that the miners are returning to work beyond the brief statement of the Attorney-General and by acting President Lewis.

BOTH ROLLINS BOYS MAY BE VICTIMS OF MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE

CONVICT MURPHY'S LINKED WITH TWO MURDERS

Assistant District Attorney Daniel J. Callagher did not use Mrs. McPhail as a witness in the trial of George Rollins.

Now Jesse Murphy confessed to the crime for which Charles Rollins is serving time. District Attorney Callagher has said he knew of the existence of this evidence at the time of the trial.

AID REFUSED WALSH.

Major Thomas L. Walsh, counsel for Charles Rollins, in an attempt to have Murphy's confession investigated as raising "reasonable doubt" on Rollins' guilt, has been refused aid by the district attorney's office.

Major Walsh's next step will be to investigate the Murphy confession, report the facts to the Governor and Council and petition for a pardon.

The police inspector who arrested the Rollins brothers for the two murders was misled into the belief that Jesse Murphy was at the time of the murder confined in the latter's prison camp. Towards show that Murphy had escaped from the Island institution some weeks before and that at the time he was reported as a murderer, he was innocent.

That this evidence was in the hands of the prosecuting authorities is also claimed today by Rollins' friends.

Following the arrest of Mrs. Flynn, of Lawrence, a former state police officer, tending to discredit Murphy's confession, secured by the American.

Murphy might at this late date compare with some one else to confess falsely, say Rollins' friends, but Murphy could not possibly have conspired with himself to testify Inspector Michael Morrisey on the morning of February 27, 1917, that it might be well to look up Jesse Murphy at the Charlestown State Prison.

AN IMPRESSIVE TIP.

That tip in itself was particularly significant and was actually received by Morrisey at his home six days after the murder of Rollins, but Morrisey did not tell the latter it was a tip.

Rollins' making a fair investigation and reporting to his superior officer, Chief Inspector Morrisey.

To Morrisey it was sufficiently impressive to have him order Morrisey to report the facts to Superintendent Crowley and to the latter it was impressive enough to sanction a visit to Philadelphia later, where Murphy was under arrest charged with murdering a woman.

JEALOUSY CHARGES ABRUPT.

Insinuations that jealousy among police inspectors is responsible for the present confession, and other facts surrounding it are considered absurd in police circles. Morrisey reported his facts before the Rollins boys were arrested. He reported his facts squarely to the district attorney's office, and there was none to doubt the sincerity of his efforts.

Morrisey's story has been told under oath. On the morning of February 27, 1917, the telephone in his home rang at about 7:15 o'clock, and he answered and then went to the phone.

"We are out working on the A. and P. stores," was the question asked me, said Morrisey.

WOMAN VICTIM OF BRUTAL ATTACK

Found in Dying Condition in Her Apartment in Brooklyn

New York, Dec. 12.—Brooklyn detectives are hard at work on a mysterious attack on Miss Josephine Smith, forty-one, who was beaten and shot as she lay in her bed in her apartment.

Mrs. Smith, a ticket agent in a railroad office in Manhattan, is in a dying condition in the Jewish Hospital, suffering from a fracture of the skull, evidently inflicted by a beating with the butt of a revolver, and a flesh wound from a bullet over the right eye. The scratches are barely visible, showing that the weapon was discharged at close range. She was found in a semi-conscious condition and has told several incoherent and conflicting stories.

Neighbors believe that robbery was the motive of the attack. Miss Smith heard about midnight attracted neighbors to the apartment, which was locked. They called a policeman, who broke in the door. Under the pillow was a fully-loaded 12-caliber revolver which Miss Smith admitted was her own. This caused her to be taken to a prisoner under the Sullivan law.

ADVISES COLLEGE GIRLS AGAINST SOCIAL WORK

A college graduate went with much as a college graduate. Miss Rachel L. Harwell, alumnae member of the Boston University chapter of the International Community service Association, told the editor of Liberal Arts girls.

"Unpleasant" volunteer work are of questionable value," she continued, advising the girls who had less than half a day of a time for volunteer work not to offer their services to social service organizations.

Birth Rate of Paris Is Now Greater Than Death Rate

Paris, Dec. 12.—For the first time in years the Paris birthrate is exceeding the death rate. This is due to the large number of marriages immediately after the war.

Statistics made public today show that the births last week were 1,915, against 170 deaths.

The maternity hospitals are overcrowded and it is necessary to place some in the corridors. Leaders of the "nurse babies" campaign are urging the government to take immediate steps to provide more hospitals.

BUILDING OWNERS FINED FOR DEFECTIVE ELEVATOR

Albert W. Perry, a well-known real estate owner, his son, Herbert S. Perry, and his chief engineer, Jefferson L. Moore, each paid a $50 fine in the Superior Criminal Court on an indictment charging them with having violated the elevator laws. They were indicted in June, 1918, and the Perry boys were convicted on two counts and fined upon each count.

The indictment followed a serious accident in the Chicago Hotel, where an elevator dropped several stories, several passengers were severely injured, and a previous accident had occurred, but no one was injured.

HEAVY THE MAN:
They were taken out of the room and three were brought in. Included among the latter was Murphy, and the mother Mrs. McPhail saw him and said: "That's the man. I never could forget his face."

"She turned to me," continued Morrisey, "and said, 'Morrisey, that's the man,' and then she nearly fainted. She straightened right out in the chair and got hold of Sergeant Murphy by the wrist. Captain Tals of the Philadelphia police ran to her assistance, getting her a glass of water."

The party then returned to Boston and a report of the happenings at Philadelphia was made to District Attorney Pelletier. Assistant District Attorney Callagher heard it made and questioned Mrs. McPhail, insisting that she was right. When George Rollins went on a trial for the murder of Orville Hall, Mrs. McPhail was not called as a witness.

Mrs. McPhail herself had testified at the hearing to having seen two men running that night. One of the two was putting something into his pocket as he ran. It was she who told her and it was he who said something, either "I got it" or "beat it." It was he whom she identified at Philadelphia. And the man she identified was Jesse Murphy.

AUDIENCE FILES OUT OF BURNING THEATRE

Washington, Dec. 12.—Sixteen hundred people calmly filed out of the Lyceum Theatre here while a fire raged in the gallery. The fire started from a lighted cigarette thrown on the floor. A stampede threatened when a negro shouted out a warning, but a United States sailor and the manager of the theatre urged the audience to file out calmly.

CARDIFF, WALES, BOASTS MANY NEW MILLIONAIRES

Cardiff, Wales, Dec. 12.—This city, in the heart of a coal and industrial belt, is raising Pittsburg a close second for the record of producing millionaires. Although the population is only 170,000, there are from twenty to thirty newly made millionaires living here. Great fortunes were made in ships during the war.

Y. D. HOLDS THE PROTEST MEETING

In which General Edwards held. We all think that the general deserves the rank of permanent major-general over two of those who have been nominated for this distinction.

The time is coming when the decision will not be made by favoritism, but by seniority and service. General Edwards was senior to the other two in the war.

We have all learned after service with General Edwards that he deserves to be recognized in some way instead of being passed over repeatedly as he has been.

We propose to make this protest meeting and to elect officers who will support him.

WOMEN'S FEELING VOICED.

Tonight's meeting will voice the feelings of thousands of mothers and sisters of former division men who have been passing the time of their lives in waiting for the return of their sons.

General Edwards is senior to the other two in the war. He has been in the service longer than the other two. He has been in the service longer than the other two.

Senators Hold Up Army Promotions Until Baker Explains Edwards' Slight

Washington, Dec. 12.—Secretary of War Baker, who is in the war home from the Panama Canal Zone, accompanied by the Hon. J. N. McHugh, chief of staff of the army, has, without a doubt, heard by this time the protest of the New England States in a very angry mood toward him.

They are firmly and unanimously of the opinion that the treatment accorded General Edwards has resulted in the loss of prestige and that they are determined to put a stop to it if possible.

At the meeting of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs today, speakers for the New England senatorial delegation made emphatic protest against action by the committee on the nominations of Brigadier-General Francis J. Kernan, Joseph T. Dickman and James G. Harbord to be major-generals.

They also requested that further consideration of the proposed promotions be deferred by the committee until after next Tuesday, at which time the Senate will meet.

Senator McHugh of New York, chairman of the committee, has given the New England Senators an assurance that no forward step will be taken in the matter of the proposed promotions until they have had the opportunity to be heard.

ILLICIT DISTILLERS

Teddy Bussman, a machinist, of Deatur street, and his brother-in-law, a tailor, living at the same address, were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Hayes today charged with operating an illicit still. They pleaded not guilty and were held in $500 each until December 26. The men were arrested by Agents William McCarthy and Fred Wayne of the Internal Revenue and Justice departments. The officers seized a still of ten gallons capacity, twenty-five gallons of mash, six quarts of spirits and several jugs of intoxicants, they told the court.

FLEET OF AUTO BUSES FOR THE NORTH SHORE

Manufacturers Ready to Supply 200 Cars if Trolley Lines Are Discontinued

A fleet of auto buses will be placed on the North Shore, according to the Automobile Association, held at No. 19 Central Avenue, here, on December 11, if the city should discontinue the trolley lines.

Manufacturers are prepared to supply 200 machines at once, and that town and trolley lines stand ready to back the plan.

Mayor McLaughlin of Beverly was reported to have said that auto buses would remain in that city as long as a trolley line was in force on the Bay State. He was further reported to have stated that he did not care if the trolley service was discontinued. At the present time the trolley service is being operated by the United States Machinery Company at Beverly, are entirely dependent on trolley lines and coming from there.

This statement was made today at a meeting of the Essex County Automobile Association, held at No. 19 Central Avenue, here.

RAYMOND'S OVERCOATS

Don't make you tired to hear him hollering about the scarcity of Overcoats and trying to make you think you must grab 'em quick or lose 'em. Have you seen any fellow running round sufferin' for an overcoat if he has the price? We counted yesterday exactly 2040 overcoats all ready for the people and if anyone wishes to swap some pelf for one of 'em he's welcome to do so. But if you want to buy some jiggum for Christmas 'tween you'll hafta let her have it and wait a while for your overcoat, but don't worry we'll have plenty of 'em after Christmas and s'far as that goes we just as soon keep 'em till next year anyway.

GLOOM HOVERS OVER GREAT WHITE WAY

Prohibition and High Prices Reduce Enthusiasm of Gay New Yorkers

By International News Service.
New York, Dec. 12.—(Wireless) Prohibition and the "high cost of high living" are today threatening to equal New York's own gay white way in gloom during the holiday season. Hotel and restaurant proprietors are viewing the prospects with varying emotions, while New Yorkers in general are patiently waiting to see what the Paymaster General may do tonight "lifting the lid." With very few exceptions the streets here will reap a harvest, especially on New Year's Eve, when most of the playhouses will charge $5 for seats. A year ago the highest price on New Year's Eve was $4. Prohibition, as experienced here to date, has had a generally depressing effect on the throngs that fill Broadway hotels and restaurants. A few of centrally located places in the theatre district have not felt the effects of the ban on liquor, but to general chagrin of the "lid" has left its mark. The proprietors of the Billmore, Commodore, Manhattan and Murray Hill report that there are but a few people eating and dancing now there, as in other days. The financial effect of the liquor ban, however, has been heavily felt. William H. Turner, resident manager of the Claridge, said that the sale of food is greater now than ever. "People are not spending as much as they used to," said Turner, "and they are more reserved."

English Women of High Rank Get 'Film Fever'

By International News Service.
London, Dec. 12.—Many women of high rank in England have become "film addicts," and the waiting rooms of the motion picture training schools are daily filled with aspirants for fame on the screen, according to the Daily Express.
Miss Flavia Forbes, daughter of Lady Angela Forbes, and niece of the Duchess of Sutherland, is one of the youngest and latest recruits from the peerage who is making good.
Other women from titled families who have successfully invaded the studios are Countess Marie Tolstoi, Lady Stapleton, the Hon. Mrs. Jeanne W. Graham, and Miss Unity Moore, who married a cousin of Lord Haig.
Miss Forbes, who is barely seventeen, is only a "singer" so far, but she has her heart set on becoming the Mary Pickford of England.

A delegation of Haverrill veterans, members of the 26th Division, will attend the protest mass meeting in Pawtucket Hall, Boston.

APPEAL FOR RECOGNITION OF THE IRISH REPUBLIC

It is not an executive act, it is a governmental act. The power of initiative is strong in the legislative branch than in the executive. Either Congress or the President may take the initiative.

He admitted that his resolution was tantamount to recognition. "It is not complete recognition," he pointed out, "but to notice to the President that such a step is not opposed."

"That is the military step," he explained, which has been upheld by Thomas Jefferson, Daniel Webster and Henry Clay.

"I will not cause war and never engaged war," he declared, "is one right as a republic to recognize another." Representative Mason continued.

CHAMBERLAIN'S PLAN.

Great enthusiasm greeted the closing plea of Representative Mason that the new republic "has a much stronger standing than any treaty of the republic we have recognized."

Judge Cahalan of the New York Supreme Court said:

"We come before you speaking on behalf of recognition of your fellow citizens to ask you to take one of the formal steps that must be taken before our country can fully recognize the Republic of Ireland."

"There is doubt in my mind, whether there is the power in Congress to extend such recognition," Representative Flood of Virginia interjected.

Judge Cahalan mentioned the numerous instances already cited by Representative Mason.

"My contention is that this is not in any sense a purely executive function. The President cannot fully recognize a new country without that action being passed on by the legislative body or the United States," Judge Cahalan said. "My study of the subject has made it clear to me that it takes more than the action of the President to fully recognize a new republic."

GOVERNMENT BY FORCE.

Judge Cahalan declared that there were two governments in Ireland today and that the British government was the only holding its place by force. He said that the British government had an army almost as big as the United States had at the front.

Asked if the government in Ireland was "pro facto," Judge Cahalan created a state of applause when he asked, "Which one do you mean?"

"England," declared Judge Cahalan in maintaining an army of occupation, "is the only government in Ireland to 220,000 men, including some of the fiercest native soldiers of India and other dominions."

Judge Cahalan said the English government had armed 1,500,000 men and women, including the most active of the supporters of the Irish republic.

Printing presses have been "broken to bits" and other drastic measures taken, the speaker declared.

"The English government is maintaining an army of occupation in Ireland," he said.

functioning as far as any government can which is not in physical possession," he declared. Judge Cahalan conceded that it was not in full possession only because of the English, who, he said, have hung on by force for 120 years.

"If the United States would recognize the Irish republic they would be doing the frugal act not only to Ireland, but to the English people themselves."

5 STEAMSHIPS REPORTED IN DISTRESS

Five steamships, two of them owned by the United States Shipping Board, are in distress in the North Atlantic, according to wireless reports received in Boston today.

The possible loss of the United States shipping board ship Blanchard, bound for this city, and the crew of thirteen men is indicated in the advice.

The Lake Galewood, both Shipping Board boat, the latter bound for Boston from Cleveland, went ashore in a blinding snowstorm Wednesday night.

The Lake Galewood foundered on Port Hood Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and is likely to be broken to pieces before she can be floated.

The crew of thirty-eight men were rescued after they had been battered about in open boats with a high sea running and a blinding blizzard raging.

The Lake Elmida is ashore on Prince Edward Island. Reports say that the crew had been saved. A wrecking steamer has been sent to her assistance in hopes that she may be floated, before being seriously damaged by the sea.

The Leviathan of Meriden, which left Boston for Manchester, December 5 and which has been south of Cape Race, has put back to St. John, according to wireless dispatches received at the local office.

The steamer Chetopa, giving her position as 118 miles southeast of Halifax, has made urgent calls for assistance, according to wireless messages intercepted at this port.

The steamer reports that she has lost two propeller blades and is unmanageable.

American Navy Should Be as Good as the Best

We congratulate Secretary Daniels upon his naval report. His strong recommendations to Congress to carry out the program, already approved by the last Congress, to make the United States navy as powerful and efficient as any in the world by 1925 is exactly right.

Sea power is necessary to our security. A superdreadnought, like the Tennessee now building at the Brooklyn Navy Yard—more powerful than any ship afloat—costs twenty-five million dollars. But we paid forty-eight million dollars A DAY FOR WAR.

Twenty-two American merchant ships flying the American flag were sunk by German submarines while we were at peace because the German government thought our nation reduced to impotence by lack of fighting ships.

Had the United States at that time possessed the naval strength which a nation of its standing should as a matter of self-preparedness maintain, Germany would never have dared to offer the repeated affronts that finally forced us into war.

It is greatly to the credit of the Democratic party, which the war found in power, that it was able to build up the rudimentary navy which the nation possessed in 1917 into the magnificent and victorious fighting machine the United States maintains today.

But it is well for the people to keep clearly in mind the fact that had that war been with a nation whose own ships of war were not blockaded in port by a vastly superior enemy, we would have had no chance to build up our sea fighting machine, for our coasts and shipyards would speedily have been in the hands of the foe.

And it is emphatically not to the credit of the nation that many of its present leaders should today seem willing to return the navy to that position of inferiority which it held when war's alarms startled the nation into unexampled efforts.

Presumably the members of the Congress know something of American history. It is reasonable to assume, therefore, that they know that after every war in which the United States has engaged the policy of starving the navy—to which many of them now wish to return—has been put into effect. And they must know, if they have read or studied American history at all thoroughly, that this policy has invariably led to a new war and to serious disaster before we could hastily prepare makeshift forces for the defence of our coasts.

French naval aid contributed enormously, perhaps decisively, to the victorious conclusion of our Revolution. That the struggling young nation then founded did not at once create an adequate navy is perhaps not to be wondered at. But its failure to do so resulted in three wars, in no one of which would we have been embroiled had our naval strength been adequate to maintain our independence on the seas.

As it was, France preyed on our commerce, Great Britain followed suit, and the pirates inhabiting the Mediterranean States of Africa seized our ships, enslaved our seamen and extorted from us a burdensome and humiliating tribute.

In time we built ships and defended our rights against all three of these aggressors, but the war of 1812 had barely ended when the administration began laying up, dismantling and selling the frigates that had so gallantly defended American honor on the ocean.

In a few years the United States navy had diminished to the remaining planks, though at the time our merchant marine held first place on the high seas.

When the storm of civil war fell upon us we had no navy. Our costly efforts to create a navy were then made solely to impress and overawe unfriendly powers abroad. Most fortunately for us, this effort was successful, else the French attempt to establish an empire in Mexico would have succeeded, and the eagerness of the British government to recognize the Confederacy could not have been checked.

But once more the politicians fell upon the navy, when it had done its work. Year after year it was denied proper support until, when complications with Great Britain threatened in Cleveland's administration, we had no force with which to back up that President's sturdy defiance of British aggression in Venezuela.

And when, subsequently, we became embroiled with Spain there was grave doubt at the outset whether our navy really outranked that of that decadent power. But for that doubt Spain would probably have provoked the war.

Such, then, is the record of history. Invariably the drastic reduction of the navy has been followed by foreign aggressions that have compelled war.

The politicians and officials who at the outset of our latest war were blind to the need of preparedness and deaf to the popular demand for it are now planning to reduce the navy again.

The war, it is estimated, cost us $38,000,000,000, 50,000 lives lost on the battlefields and hundreds of thousands of other lives from exposure and sickness.

All of this tribute of life and nine-tenths of the expenditure of money would have been saved had the United States, when the war broke, possessed the navy which her wealth, her extended coast line and her position among nations demanded.

In the light of these facts, the recommendation of the General Board for the continuance of a program of naval development which in six years will place it abreast of the most powerful in the world is clearly patriotic and wise.

The effort to secure from the nations with which we were lately associated in war an effective guarantee of the freedom of the seas, with progressive disarmament, was only mildly put forth by our representatives at Paris, and was then weakly abandoned.

Spain-Land Great Britain retains the mastery of the seas, with her imperialistic ally and imitator, Japan, striving desperately for second place.

Not upon them can America safely rely for its future prestige in peace or its protection in war, but only upon its own floating ramparts of steel, made numerous and strong enough to compel the justice we have a right to demand.

One Meaning of Preparedness

DEAR K. C. B.—Will you please ask the men to be kind enough when passing through an aisle to reach their seats in a theatre to fold their overcoats so that the buttons will be on the inside, as the ladies seated along the aisle through which they are passing are in great danger of losing their "crowding glory."

Twice now I have almost had my scalp removed (not to mention the pain suffered) by my hair being caught by the buttons of an overcoat on the arm of a man in the act of passing behind me, and I look to you to make a third time impossible.

And K. C. B., just supposing that I were a wig and had the above misfortune!

MY DEAR GEE GEE.
YOU HAVE my sympathy.
AND I'LL ask the men.
IF THEY won't be careful.
AND FOLD their coats.
SO THAT the buttons
WILL BE inside.
AND MY wife will thank you.
AS WELL as you.
BECAUSE TWO or three times.
SHE'S BEEN nearly dragged.

AND YOU know how it is.
WHEN YOU'RE sitting there.
AND READING the jokes.

YOU FEEL something grab you.
AND YOU have to smile.
AND GAY it's all right.
AND MY wife does that.
AND DOESN'T mean it.
AND IT spins her evening.
BECAUSE ALL the time.
SHE'S FEELING her hair.
AND I'm worried about it.
AND I have to look.
AND GAY it's all right.
WHEN IT is not.
AND THE chances are.
THAT THE man who grabbed it.
IS WORRYING about it.
AND I'VE a bad night.

Shall the Teacher's Salary Be Raised?

By Dr. P. P. Claxton

WHY pay teachers more? That our schools may be more effective, our children better taught, our social life made richer and better, our civic life put on a higher plane, State and Nation made stronger and safer, and that our democracy may not fall in its higher purpose.

In a democracy like ours everything waits on education. The schools are the chief educational agencies. The teachers make the schools. If the teachers are competent, if they have good native ability, are well educated, well trained, and have the skill that comes only from successful experience, then will the schools accomplish their purpose.

If the teachers are incompetent, if they are weaklings, if they are men and women of little native ability, negative and passive rather than positive and aggressive in character, poorly educated, of little or no professional training and without experience, then the schools must fail of all the higher purposes.

Money Wasted
The money of the people invested in them will be wasted. The time and opportunity of the children will be frittered away. Parents will be disappointed in their hopes, and community, State and Nation will be defrauded of their money.

Nothing is cheaper than good teachers; however great the salary, however little the pay. Therefore our highest duty is to get into our schools men and women of the best ability and to hold them there with the results of their accumulated experience and ripe judgment can be had. Never before in our history has so much depended on this as now.

The better teachers are cheap. The better teachers are being filled with men and women of inferior ability and preparation. There is now an estimated shortage of thirty thousand teachers in the United States, and more than three hundred thousand in service are below any reasonable standard of ability and preparation. And the best men and women are preparing to leave the schools for other lines of work.

Unless something is done the standard of education must inevitably be lowered at a time when by

The Dawn of a New Religion

By Randolph W. Hurd Smith, Author of "Ideals of Government," "Benighted Mexico," "The Sober World," etc.

No such spirit of concordance and good following could exist in any organization let alone a church, without attaining the results and achievements. It is in the nature of things that you receive at this church—the sort that says to you, "Come again and don't forget the collection plate." Rather—"We don't know who you are but we would like to, and we would like to be friends in God. Some day you may need us or we may need you, God bless you." And you come away with a queer curl in your curriculum. Two hours ago those people were strangers and now—

As I was about to take my leave Mr. Atkinson stopped me to extend another cordial invitation to return and something was said about the liquor evil. He described the horror of the situation in terms that could not be mistaken and told of a visit that he had paid to a Boston home in the slums. The man was drunk with a score or more of whiskey bottles about the room, while the mother of the household lay in bed insensible from liquor with a new-born babe by her side. Two mornings later the newspapers announced that every city in the State had voted a return of the liquor license. It is obvious that many churches of the Newville type will be needed to combat the drink evil. And it is only with the help of the churches and the relentless efforts of Christian people that the government in the end will be enabled to enforce the Federal act passed by Congress and signed by the President and now by the power of God and the providence of the people, an almost unassailable amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

It Was Cozy
This Newville church seats less than 400. Its smallness lends largely to the coziness and the warmth of welcome. How it can support such a choir and such remarkable music is a mystery to the casual observer. Perhaps it has an angel, as they say in the rural parishes—two, three or three angels, who prefer to spend their money in a service to God and for his glorification rather than to buy opera.

Sorely tempted Taft is no saint when he says "that the only thing that can save us." And it is the church—the church of the Newville type—that is going to be the balance wheel in the world's revolution. It is going to be the balance wheel in the world's revolution. It is going to be the balance wheel in the world's revolution.

Time was not many years ago when a metropolitan newspaper would so much as mention a sermon like that of President Wilson's "Fourteen Principles." It would have thought of reproducing the Book of Revelation. Yet this "gift of religion" sermon was displayed elaborately in every great newspaper of the land and their displays were accompanied by many laudatory comments.

Back to God
Men are turning their faces back to God. In all verity may this statement be repeated. They realize their own infirmities. When a little band of benighted politicians can block the peace of mankind—a covenant that spells the remaining of the world and perchance an enduring civilization it is no wonder that men are turning their faces back to God.

Reverend Emersons are agitated because 85,000 prominent Americans are going to vote in money and church tithes. Clergymen fear these most Americans may become demoralized in a money climate, where gambling temptations and cork and wine are so plentiful.

However, since prosperous Americans will surely live abroad in more and more thousands of millions of dollars will be sent to Europe bound to in New York neighbor Cuba to get her share? Americans might send money over home, rather than to Monte Carlo.

More serious than Cuban champagne and gambling, however, is the prospect of the American newspaper's financial collapse. It is the prospect of the American newspaper's financial collapse. It is the prospect of the American newspaper's financial collapse.

Ireland was ruined, because those that cared had no money to spend in London. This is a rich story. When instead of one William Waller, after spending to Ireland the rest of his New York, a hundred or five thousand dollars, got his money back and spent it over there.

Following the coal strike foot-lashes develop. Individuals in and out of government are bragging, telling how they "stood union labor on its head and made it come to time." Perhaps they did all they say, but just now less bragging and more fact would be desirable.

Telling union labor "where it is" is popular at the moment. Four candidates for the Presidency are running on the platform, "Watch what I do in union labor."

One or two of these gentlemen may discover during 1920 that union labor also votes.

This is not a time for those that represent government or capital to brag about defeating labor. And it is not a time for union or other workers to be foolish, break their contracts or allow interference to the public welfare.

Working men, particularly leaders of union labor, are realizing that conditions are changed. Wages are high and the cost of living is high. Plenty of work at high wages naturally weakens labor organizations. The man who can always find work at high pay does not need organizers to help him.

A great deal of work is to be done there is a great deal of money to pay for it. It should be possible to run the business of the country without fights that were inevitable in days when two nonunion men were looking for the union man's job.

It is possible for the first time with X-ray to locate the beginning of cancer in the stomach. Air or gas is pumped in and the stomach is distended. The light travels in a curve, not in a straight line. When light leaves the sun it goes a certain distance and comes back again.

No wonder the scientists say that there are only two things that living that understand the thing. Mr. Einstein understands little more than the rest of us. A chicken inside its shell, even if it would mean time and space, is limited by the whole world.

Plato's men in the cave watching shadows on the wall, thought they were studying real life. He saw its boundaries. Our little lives in this world are no different, as the germ of life in the egg, the germ of life in the egg, the germ of life in the egg.

And there are doubtless many other things outside of us that we call the universe, as a group of stars that make up the Milky Way, a group of stars that make up the Milky Way, a group of stars that make up the Milky Way.

Many things are in the water besides these frog eggs, and there are many things in the water besides these frog eggs, and there are many things in the water besides these frog eggs.

Time and space are not limited, and all progress is blind. Light travels through ether, curving back again, perhaps when it reaches the source of the little cosmic egg that makes up our universe. But there are other eggs you may see, with their Newtons and their Einsteins, their laws of light and electricity.

We little human creatures deserve pity. For as Americans, a really nice man said, twenty-four hundred years ago.

"Nothing can be known, nothing can be learned, nothing can be certain, space is limited, intellect is weak. Life is short."

Reverend Emersons are agitated because 85,000 prominent Americans are going to vote in money and church tithes. Clergymen fear these most Americans may become demoralized in a money climate, where gambling temptations and cork and wine are so plentiful.
